Hovercraft Fun in Science

Yr 8 investigating Surfaces in Science with Mr Lynn and the hovercraft they made. Students learnt about frictionless surfaces, had fun at the same time and gave Mr Lynn plenty of exercise.

Stress Down Day

Stress Down/Dress Down day was a great success with lots of food being sold and money raised.

Principal's Message

The last week of a very busy semester has come and I am reasonably sure the light at the end of the tunnel is definitely not a train so bring on the mid-year break.

This week is Lawn Bowls at Tullamore Monday, Secondary Assembly and Corrective Reading Reward Day Tuesday, Immunisation for years 10/11, Basketball and Netball game against Tullamore Wednesday and Secondary Reward BBQ Thursday.

The vaccination on Wednesday is to protect against Meningococcal. Unfortunately, the condition most teenagers catch to some degree around Years 9, 10, and 11 is knoweverythingoccal and there is no known vaccine. This highly infectious condition is spread by being in close proximity to each other. It results in copious discharges of verbal dribble from the mouth. Serious sufferers of this condition have learnt everything necessary to be successful in life before they have actually had to take the responsibility of living it independently. The holy scriptures are obsolete and the meaning of life is contained within the wisdom of YouTube clips from American rap artists, some only worth 50 cents or the utterances of the stars (sorry residents of Summer Bay). Most will overcome this condition with time, but in serious cases, parents may need to move out and return to the home when they become human again. However, despite the prevalence of knoweverythingoccal I can honestly say it is a privilege to be involved with the students of this school this semester. We have had very few incidents and coming to work has been a pleasure.

Our application for a Pets as Therapy dog will be assessed on Tuesday. I applied for this dog because they are specifically trained to support children suffering from anxiety related conditions. These conditions are either temporary because of separation from parents or a long-term medical condition. There is also extensive educational research that confirms the calming effect of dogs on children. Having a dog on site is outside the square but I feel we should not be afraid to try new things if they have the potential to enhance the welfare and learning of students. I said to the committee we are keen but we will not beg. Fortunately, the dog is already trained to do that for us.

Last week Smiles on Site postponed their visit until the end of next term. This is to give the community more opportunity to book appointments and the school more time to promote this service. I thank the management for not cancelling through lack of commitment but giving Trundle residents more time to consider this FREE service. I intend to invite Tullamore Central School to take part to try to achieve the desired numbers for the service.

The new evil according to the media in schools is mobile phones. I agree this device has increased the penetration of bullying and arguably the effectiveness. However, bullying has always been an unfortunate aspect of society. The note passed around the classroom had as much sole destroying affect as a text message but when you left the school, you were removed from its penetration. Electronic communication follows students into the security of their homes. However, removing the phone does not remove the need of some people to dominate and destroy the emotional stability of another. Building resilience in children is the ultimate answer because bullies only target the weak. If a bully quickly determines a person is strong enough to resist and to see the bully for what they are, a small insignificant person trying to rise up from the sewer by dragging others down they quickly move on to another. This school does not only have a zero tolerance to bullying we have an intense hatred for the effects bullying has on the self confidence and inner spirit of children. There is a very old saying, Weak people revenge, Strong people forgive, Intelligent people ignore.

Occasionally, I read or hear people calling for longer school hours. This would certainly be advantageous for working parents and school assets would be utilised for longer periods. However, I wonder what would be the educational value of extending school hours or terms. Children at the end of term are tired and as many parents would have noticed a little cranky. If a little cranky means, younger ones have a hair trigger for tears and cannot explain why they are upset just they are! Extending the term would I believe only increase the amount of dead or underutilised learning time as many students would not have the attitude or capacity to learn. In addition, it is already extremely difficult to attract quality staff and teaching has one of the highest rates of stress related illnesses of any workforce. Longer school terms would only increase these problems. However, people with much more impressive titles than myself will ultimately make those type of decisions. I would be happy to work during the holidays if it would benefit the students. However, I often ask students about two weeks of extra maths revision and very few take me up on the offer.

Reports will be posted out today. It has been a pleasure to read this semesters reports. The vast majority of reports were positive indicating that students are making a genuine effort to take advantage of the supportive environment of Trundle Central School. Henry Ford said, whether you think you can, or think you cannot your right. This is a very easy way of stating that attitude is a major determiner in success. This year I have seen students who were struggling to meet minimum expectations start to believe in themselves and excel.

A positive mental attitude is asking how something can be done rather than saying it cannot be done. It disappoints me the culture of blame that we have allowed to develop in our country and unfortunately within some of our children. I completely understand that some people experience horrific conditions and this takes away opportunity. However, we need I believe to instil in children that it is possible to rise above adversity and reach their potential rather than accept the hand that has been dealt. Kurt Fearnley could have decided that his physical deficits at birth gave him an excuse to not contribute but he decided to be an athlete, ambassador and role model to people with disabilities. The man crawled the Kokoda track! Kerry Stokes was in an orphanage and was placed in a family he did not know as many of our foster children are, but he rose above it and owned a media empire.

My point is every student has limitless potential through free education provided in this country despite his or her background. The limit is their willingness to grasp the opportunity.

Unfortunately, we have lost some students through circumstances outside our control. Miara and Lara Warner are leaving us after their property sold recently. I thank Tash Warner for the support she has given to this school and her relentless energy and determination to create the best possible opportunities for her children. Tash was always realistic and supportive, never aggressive but firm in her desire for her children to succeed. I wish her children and family every possible happiness at their new school and home. Remember life is too short to be serious all the time. Therefore, if you cannot laugh at yourself call me and you can laugh at me.

Happiest person in Trundle

Premiers Reading Challenge

The PRC is back for another amazing year of reading! All the students are reading as many books as they can to add to their lists for 2019!

Secondary

Firstly I'd like to congratulate the students for what has been an excellent term. There have been so many extracurricular activities, excursions and learning opportunities provided by the staff. I am so impressed with this year's cohort and in particular their commitment to their academic studies.

In light of this amazing effort by our students we have two events this week to celebrate this. The first is the Secondary Award Assembly which will be held on Tuesday at 2.00pm. This is an opportunity for staff to acknowledge the students' efforts, behaviour, attitude and accomplishments. Students may go home straight after the assembly if they are accompanied by their parents.

On Thursday we will have the Secondary Reward BBQ. The invitations for those students on the correct level (which is the vast majority) will be issued tomorrow. The sheer number of students who are being invited to these reward activities is a real joy for the staff to see.

On Tuesday our Year 12 Senior Science students are attending a study day in Tullamore. Thank you to Mr Lynn for his organisation of this and Mr Southon for transporting the students.

This semester we have been trialling the new 5-period timetable. I would be interested to hear any feedback any of our school community members might have on this. From my position in the school it has appeared to have had many benefits for our students.

As always if there are any questions in relation to secondary matters please do not hesitate to contact me at school

Have a great week

PARKES SUCCESS AT REGIONAL WASTE TO ART

Twelve artworks, winners in the Parkes local competition, feature in the Regional SIMS Metal Waste to Art & Design Competition currently on exhibit in Narromine.

The many local Waste to Art exhibitions provide a creative outlet for aspiring and professional artists across New South Wales. The 2018 regional exhibition brings together the most inspired and imaginative artworks from 15 local government areas. The regional winners were announced on Saturday 23 June at the Narromine Sports and Fitness centre.

Steven Campbell, Director Environment and Planning, attended the event and was delighted artists from the Parkes Shire won awards.

"The Parkes Shire has a long history with the Waste to Art exhibition, being a founding Council to participate. This year some of our long time artists received awards, but also some new artists have been acknowledged for their ideas and skills" said Steven.

WINNER Building/Sculpture 2D, Middleton Public School - 'Why Do Trees Need to be Green'

ASTROFEST 2018 SET TO BE OUT OF THIS WORLD

An astrophysicist, spaceflight historian, observatory operator and 'The Discoverer of Pulsars' are among the stellar all-female line up of guest speakers at this year's CWAS Astrofest in Parkes.

The festival endeavours to bring together people of the Central West and world renowned astronomers, both professional and amateur, so they may share their enthusiasm and love of the heavens.

Parkes will welcome Donna Burton, Amy Shira Teitel, Professor Elaine Sadler and Dame Jocelyn Bell-Burnell for the two day conference in July.

Parkes Shire Mayor, Councillor Ken Keith said "we are delighted to host such acclaimed space personalities, who will provide their insights into the various aspects of modern astronomy."

"Parkes boasts the darkest skies in Australia, and this event is a fantastic way to showcase our part of the universe to people from all across the world."

The conference, held in the Coventry Room, will include a series of talks and daytime astronomy, with the highlight being the conference dinner held on Saturday 14 July.

Irish astrophysicist, Dame Jocelyn Bell-Burnell will deliver The John Bolton Lecture. Dame Bell-Burnell is credited with "one of the most significant scientific achievements of the 20th Century", discovering the first radio pulsars in 1967. The discovery was recognised by the award of the Nobel Prize in Physics to her thesis supervisor Antony Hewish.

The popular astrophotography competition will return in 2018, open to all amateur astronomers in Australia. Dr David Malin, the world-renowned astrophotographer, will judge the entries.

A selection of the best images will go on display at the Parkes Observatory Visitors Centre, and will remain on exhibition for the entire year, with the "David Malin Awards" presented at a special ceremony held during the conference dinner.

This year, Council is pleased to further support the annual staging of this event in Parkes by developing a public artwork featuring finalists from the David Malin Astrophotography Awards throughout the history of Astrofest.

The second day of the Conference is held at the CSIRO Parkes Radio Telescope, with the official opening of the David Malin Awards Exhibition at the Visitor Centre. If the stars align, and the sun is shining, you can gaze through a telescope and view bright stars, planets, the Sun and the Moon during the daytime.

Getting peckish whilst out there staring into space? Not a problem. Breakfast and lunch are available at the Dish Café.

For the full programme of events, visit the Central West Astronomical Society's website, www.cwas.org.au/astrofest

Class K – Fruit & Vegetables – Trundle Show

Hi Gardeners

Over the holidays make the chance to plant some vegetables in preparation for the show. It is the time to put in your radish seeds and plant seedlings of other winter vegetables like lettuce, cabbage and cauliflower, or perhaps planting some herbs?

This year we are going to have a special section to showcase Swiss Chard. We invite all locals to have a try at growing Chard in their garden in preparation for the show, this section is open to all age groups and there is first prize money of $50!

Sometimes known as Ruby Chard or Rainbow Chard, seeds are available at Trundle Hardware. For best results, start your planting now!

Any questions please call Debbie Anderson 040 205 0912
Happy Gardening.

Returned Local Artist on Exhibit

Alice Stokes returned to Parkes in late 2017 after a number of years honing her creative skills and process in Berlin and is sharing some of her work with Parkes Library for an exhibition during July.

Due to Alice's love of film noir and the colour black she primarily draws with graphite on black paper or charcoal, creating stark, evocative images that are only revealed as the light catches the graphite.

Upon returning to Parkes, inspirational focus eluded Alice...

So here returned to my childhood home.

*My mind doth roam,
through ideas to comb.*

What to draw in monochrome? – Alice Stokes

...Until the screeching of an Australian raven demanded attention of both the eyes and ears. Recently the subject matter has extended into other backyard wildlife in the nocturnal Australian landscape.

Alice's "Australian Gothic Local" exhibition will be on exhibit at Parkes Library from 3rd to 28th July 2018.

This exhibit continues Parkes Library's purpose of providing a venue for local artists to exhibit their work, as well as bringing a variety of art forms to the community for their viewing.

"Alice's latest art series, a graphite exploration of neo Australian gothic art and contemporary art noir style, is inspiring and an art style that has not been on exhibit before in the Library" said Shellie Buckle, Manager Cultural, Education & Library Services.
